Indiana University-Purdue University Fort Wayne (IPFW) has the broadest scope of programs of all institutions of higher learning in northeastern Indiana. A joint campus of two internationally recognized Big Ten schools, IPFW grants both Indiana University and Purdue University degrees.

IPFW reflects the IU and Purdue commitments to excellence in teaching, research, and service. The university takes advantage of the latest technologies in order to enhance information exchange, classroom instruction, research, and communications. The reputations of Indiana University and Purdue University carry traditions of distinction in humanities, fine arts, health sciences, social sciences, education, business, public affairs, natural and physical sciences, engineering, technology, and computer science. IPFW provides the region access to an excellent education by offering academic diversity, affordability, and flexibility. Students have access to expanded opportunities in research, academic, and extracurricular endeavors. IPFW is committed to the continued economic, cultural, and educational development of the 11-county service area.

Nearly 12,000 students are enrolled in more than 175 academic programs at the associate's, bachelor's, master's and certificate levels. While the diverse student body continues to grow, the average class size remains 24. An additional 9,000 students pursue noncredit, lifelong learning opportunities through the Division of Continuing Studies.

IPFW's academic programs are delivered through six schools and four divisions: Arts and Sciences; Business and Management Sciences; Education; Engineering, Technology, and Computer Science; Health Sciences; Visual and Performing Arts; Continuing Studies; Labor Studies; Organizational Leadership and Supervision; Public and Environmental Affairs; The university is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Schools, divisions and programs have earned additional accreditations through professional societies.
