The University of Notre Dame is the most selective university in Indiana and probably the most famous worldwide. Notre Dame is a medium-sized, coed, independent Catholic university that was founded in 1842 by a priest of the Congregation of Holy Cross. The University offers bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs in its Colleges of Arts and Letters, Business, Science, and Engineering. It also offers both bachelor's and advanced degrees in its School of Architecture and professional degrees in its Law School, M.B.A. program, and Master of Divinity program.

Ninety-eight percent of first-year Notre Dame students return for their second year—a record unmatched among national universities—and some 94 percent graduate—a mark bettered only by Harvard and Princeton. Though Notre Dame places major emphasis on excellence in teaching, in recent years it also has raised its profile as a research institution. Grounded in faith and celebrated for its spirit, Notre Dame fosters a unique sense of community among its students. Each of the university's 27 residence halls has an atmosphere and character of its own, which is why more than 80 percent of all undergraduates live on campus.
